PERFUMING THE BLOOD.

English People Are Trying the Idea that

The other day a well-known Bond-street beautifier showed and explained to the Pail-Mail Bodyet a new and wonderful process for perfuming the human body. By hypodermic injections of sweet essences, such as white rose, lilac, or violet, one's skin may be rendered as iragrant as that of Alexander the Great's. The little in strument for making the injection is a syringe about the same size as that used far administering morphia. It will hold something like half a dozen drops of essence. The operation is painless and one may do it for oneself with only the aid of one's right hand. It only needs to be performed once a week, as the perfume remains in the skin for that period. I was assured that there was no risk of blood-poisoning. The beautifier said that the fact that the breath as well as the skin is rendered fragrant by the essence. Men will no doubt find it a handy remedy for counteracting the odors of tobbace smoke, which to some fastidious ladies is "so very bitual constitution." Came Out Here a Year Ago.

Ex-President Davis's Body,

Richmond, with spirit highly to be commended, is putting forth great effort to induce Mrs. Jefferson Davis to make Richmond the final place of burnal of her husband. Many cities are seeking this honor, notably Jackson, Miss., which in all probability has claims second to none, save and except Richmond. The most eventful periods of Mr. Davis's life were spent in Richmond. Here he was the chief of the Cenfederacy: around Richmond occurred many of the most terrible battles of the war; here lis buried thousands of those patriotic men, humble though they were, who counted themselves blessed in being permitted to die in defence of the cause to them so lear. Richmond is the seat of the late Confederacy, over which Mr. Davis presided. The same Capitol building is there, the same Executive Massion, the same Senate chamber and hall of Congress. There the monument of Washington, the nation's pride; here the monument to that grand and good man, R. E. Lee; there stands the monument to General T. J. Jackson, "standing like a stone wall"; and now the body of General A. P. Hill, remembered by his chieftain in his last moments, is to be brought here to restnear those with whom he fought. And what more fitting place can there be than Richmond, hallowed as it is by all of these associations, for the final resting-place of the chieftain of the Southern Confederacy? We believe the whole South will accord this honor, feeling that no other place has claims to be compared with Richmond.

Treatment of Tuberculosis.

Paris, July 7.—Dr. Lannelongue's method of treating uberculosis is to inject a solution of chloride of zinc into the affected tissues. The solution hardens the tubercle tissue, producing a condition unfavorable to the existence of tubercle bacilli. The process of treatment is tedious, but it is a remarkable scientific application of the Pasteur and Kochmethods. The Doctor himself admits that he proceeds according to the Pasteur methods and operates on the Koch baccillus.

Here we enter the hall with possibly only a badge on, while there one must be attired in full regalia to cross its threshold."

left to fall back upon in political life. The result of the election announced to-day was as follows: Hammond (McCarthylte candidate), 3,755; Kettle (Parnellite), 1,539-majority against Kettle, 2,216.
Carlow is the smallest county in Ireland and contains a population of 45,000 people and an electorate of about 7,000, of whom 1,000 are Conservatives. Andrew Kettle, the defe_ted Farnellite candidate, is a farmer of Dublin county, who has already been twice defeated at the polls. Hammond, the victorious McCarthylte candidate, is a popular merchant of Carlow, who for twelve years past has held the position of chairman of the Town Commissioners.

The "Proper Mode" Found.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—Dr. Carlos P. Mo-Donald, who conducted the execution and the autopsies of the four murderers at Sing Sing yesterday, arrived here last night. He declined to give out his autopsy notes to a reporter, saying: "I have not got them, in shape and Dr. Wardand i have yet to make miscroscopical examination. The results will be written out and sent to the Warden at Sing Sing and he will file them probably with the prison superintendent. The execution was a success, and I believe we have found the proper mode of capital punishment as it is to continue in this State."

Dr. McDonald said: "There were too many witnesses. It would be better to have only a few seientific men present. Dr. Ward and myself were the official physicians and will make the death report. I should like to teil you more, but my allegiance to the Warden forbids. I can say that I believe death was instantaneous."

VIRNA, Austria, July 8.—At a conforence io-day between Arnold White, representing Baron Hirsch; Herr Franzos, representing the Jews of Berlin, and Dr. Kuranda, of this city, it was agreed that the best direction in which to guide the tide of Jewish emigration was toward the Argentine Republic.
